Lady Loafers.

A cynical Anonyma writes to the Cin-

Sometimes it seems to me that the whole social life of women is based upon two ideas-aping and envy. The woman who lives in two little back rooms upstairs, apes and envies the woman who has a whole house to herself. The woman who has a small house apes and envies the woman with a large house, and the woman with a large house is in a steady fever of fear and fretting lest she be not recognized and visited by the woman who has a stone front house and a circus chariot with a clown dressed up in buttons. No matter how high up a woman climbs upon the social ladder, there is always still some higher height which she can't scale, some other woman over her head who looks down upon her, and gives her days and nights of jealousy and headache. Not a blessed woman of them all, is happy and content in the soil wherein fate has placed her, but must needs spend her best time and strength in frantic efforts to pull herself up by the roots and transplant herself somewhere else. The snobs who ride in circus chariots curl up their noses at the schoolmistresses, the

I found at length a small cutting at the base of the ch. mney fire-board. Removing the board I discovered a mouse-hole between the brick floor and the wall. I then got a chise! and pried up the brick, and lo, underneath it was the envelope with the note inside! The gum was eaten off, the envelope crumpled up, but the note was intact! The story was now plain enough. During our absence from the room, the mouse had come out seeking what he could devour-had climbed up the lace curtains beside the bureau, attracted by the seed in the bird-cage above-he jumped on the bureau-found the gummed envelope, and had dragged it down the curtain to the floor, through the opening in the fire-board to his nest

Newspaper Decisions.

1. Any person who takes a paper regularly from the Post Office—whether directed in his name or another, or whether he has subscribed or not—is responsible for the pay.

2. If a person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether the paper is taken from the office or not.

3. The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers from the Post Office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

Town of Mexico.

MR. EDITOR :- In writing of this town properly, we should say she was the mother of towns, and even more of counties; that is, it included 7 of Oswego Co., as at present, one half of Lewis and Jefferson counties, and almost 4 towns in Oneida county.

When we look at the old town origin ally, we behold a large tract of country, mostly a forest, where the wild beasts roamed in their fierceness, and the inhabitants but few, scattered and far be-

The records show that the town was formed from Whitestown as a part of Herkimer Co., April 10, 1792; that county having been formed from Montgomery Co. the year previous.

The town of Mexico, it is said, had two formation; the 2d being in 1796. No territory was taken off under the first formation, and in fact none under the 2d until the year 1799.

Mexico of 1796 was bounded by Onei da Lake, Oneida and Oswego Rivers. Lake Ontario, and the Black River up as far as Lyons Falls, or near that point, and then by a line between the present towns of Leyden and West Turin, in Lewis Co., through the town of Lewis, in said Co., to Fish Creek, and down that stream to Oneida Lake. The town of Camden, Oneida Co., was taken off in 1799. This was the first. Watertown and Champion in Jefferson Co., Lowville and Turin in Lewis Co., and Redfield, in this county, in 1800. 1872. Next followed Loraine in Jefferson Co., and Williamstown in this county, in 1804. Then came Fredericksburgh, (afterward Volney,) in 1806. Next we find Constantia in 1808; New Haven in 1813, and Parish in 1828.

The early records of the town of Mexico were lost during the year 1797, while being carried from the present limits of the town to Watertown. The party who had them in charge were obliged to camp out in the woods over night, and in starting off the next morning they were accidentally left behind. When missed the party returned for them without success, and in this way it is said the records were lost. For this reason we shall have to begin no farther back than 1798 in tracing the records of the town.

In that year the Town Meeting was held at Rotterdam, (now Constantia,) and the following named persons were elected to the different offices in the then great town of Mexico:

Supervisor-John Mever. Town Clerk—Benjamin Wright. Assessors—John W. Bloomfield, Amos Mathews, Benjamin Gilbert and Luke

Collector-Solomon Waring. Poor Masters-Solomon Waring and

Reuben Hamilton, Com. Highways—John W.Bloomfield, Reuben Hamilton and Samuel Jarvis. Constables—Abner Mathews, Jared Shepard, Andrew Bissett and Abram Van Valkenburgh.

Overseers of Roads—Henry Fall, Chipman Wheadon, Amos Mathews and Benjamin Gilbert. Pound Master-Henry Fall.

Fence Viewers-Henry Fall and Amos Mathews

Com. of Schools-Samuel Rogers, John Meyer and Benjamin Wright.

In 1799 Town Meeting was held at Luke Mason's, near Salmon Creek; in 1800 at Benj. Winch's, at the mouth of said creek; in 1801 at Solomon Waring's. in Rotterdam; in 1802 there was no town meeting, and the officers were appointed by the Justices, Messrs. Hamililton, Wood and Bloomfield, who are the first named on record. The next year Benjamin Wright was added to the list of Justices. It will be proper here to say that under the first constitution, extending up to 1821, the Jutices were appointed by the Governor and Council, once at least in every three years. The town meetings were all held within the present limits of the town of Mexico, excepting the two years of 1798

John Meyer held the office of Supervisor only one year. The next was Reuben Hamilton with 5 years service. The third was Jonathan Parkhurst one year. The fourth Calvin Tiffany one year, and then followed Dver Burnham with eleven years. Elias Brewster, Peter Pratt and Seabury A. Tuller served 7 years each. Joseph W. Houghton, John M. Richardson, Bradley Higgins and William J Menter 4 years each, No others excepting those above mentioned have held the office over two years. There have been 27 Supervisors in all. Of Town Clerk's there have been 26, of whom Elias Brewster served 13 years, Phineas Davis and Starr Clark 8 years each; James S. Chandler 7 years; Geo. W. Pruyne 5 years; Rufus Tiffany 4 years; Orrin D. Whitney, Henry M. Bard and Solomon Alexander 3 years each, and no others over two years.

Of the Supervisors and Town Clerks. 13 of each held the office only one year. I might extend this civil list in a higher grade, with reference to some of the above named, but the article is already, no doubt, too long for your patience.

excepted. Mexico, July 30, 1873. Poisoned.—We learn that six memhers of Mr. S. G. Merriam's family, of New Haven, were poisoned yesterday from eating mushrooms. Last night Miss Merriam was not expected to live. but, we are glad to learn that she is much better this morning, as well as the other sick ones. Drs. Bradbury and Johnson of this village, and Dr. Rockwell, of New Haven, were in attendance.

The service held Sunday evening in Grace (Episcopal) church, by Rev. Thomas Gallaudet, D. D., Rector of St. Ann's Church for Deaf-Mutes, N. Y., was well attended and quite interesting. The usual evening service was read by the Rector. Rev. Geo. H. Watson, and translated by Dr. Gallaudet to the mutes. The holy rite of baptism was administered to an infant son of Mr. Lawrence N. Jones, of Richland.

Dr. Gallaudet explained the mute sign system to the hearing portion of the congregation, saying that as words were the signs of ideas, and not ideas themselves. so the word signs are representatives of ideas, and as easily understood by the mute as articulated sounds are by us: the arrangement is different, though, in the sign language, the substantive is placed first, then the modifiers, and last the verb. He then spoke for a short time to the mutes, urging those who were in the right path to continue on, and counseling those who were not, to seek the "pearl of great price." And closed with a few remarks concerning the origin and progress of the Mission to Deaf-Mutes, and the Home in New York for Aged and Infirm Deaf-Mutes.

The "children of silence" have in Dr Gallaudet an earnest and eloquent advocate, and we are sure that they appreciate his labors of love.

The ladies of the Presbyterian Soiety will give another Sociable at the Lecture-room, Friday evening, Aug. 8th. An enjoyable time is expected.

THE CAMDEN ADVANCE,-The first number of this paper, published by Walter C. Stone, late publisher of the Canastota Herald, came to us on Thursday, and, neat as it is, we have no doubt it will present a still handsomer appearance in the course of a week or two. The difficulties attendant upon sending forth the first issue are only known to puhlishers, and knowing as we do, Mr. Scone's taste, ability and energy, we feel sure that he will make his paper good and popular.

On Sunday, June 5th, 1814, an alarm was sent through the town, warning every man and boy to hasten to the land ing, for the British were coming. Well, we all turned out, some with guns, some with guns without locks, some with locks without any flints, others with pitchforks, &c. A motley throng-backwoodsmen, hunters, trappers and boys, a sorry looking crowd to fight British regulars.

The British did not appear that day. At evening I went home feeling sad enough; but as I went I met a troop of cavalry under Captain Harris, of the United States army, a regiment of riflemen under command of Major Appling, a company of artillery with two brass guns and a company of marines. These were on the way to "the front," to defend our property. Major Appling stationed his forces as follows: The artillery at the head of the lane near our boats, so as to sweep the bank of the creek for a quarter of a mile; the cavalry in the open field beside the artillery; the riflemen were secreted behind the brush fence at the lower edge of the woods, and the Indians (the Oneidas) were behind the fence further to the right of the riflemen. The militia men were posted on the bank of the stream in the woods and bushes. Thus arranged with admirable military skill, the American forces lay

Fortunately the jury was composed of representative men from all over the town, who could comprehend the town's necessities and advantages, and men, too, who study economy. A remonstrance signed by many respectable citizens, was sent to the jury urging them not to lay out the road. We believe these citizens will soon see the day that they will honor the jury for their wise conclusions. It was too much for the village to say to such men as Messrs. In this place, July 25th, 1873, Lillie, only daughter of Geo. W. and Sophie R. Stone, aged 4 years, 1 month and 18 days. IN MEMORY OF OUR LITTLE LILLIE. Our little one, oh, can it be,

DIED:

The first to try the great unknown, Dearly beloved. Thou wert a sunbeam, happy one, That vanished in the morning's pride: A budding floweret, plucked before

It opened wide.

Thou art so soon from earth removed;

Dear dancing feet, and laughing eyes, And joyous notes our ears have heard; Sweet prattling lips, and dippled cheek Our singing bird !

On earth, thy warbling notes did tell,

But not as now, in realms above,

The wondrous story, and the gift Of Jesus' love. Thy feet now tread the streets of gold? Thou'st entered at the open door;

Thou art not dead, thou art not lost,

But gone before ! Oh for submissive love to kiss The rod, and yield, yea cease all strife: 'Tis God's to take, because he gave The precious life.

Around us hovering close, thou may'st A ministering spirit be; A guardian we may have in one We cannot see.

The ground thy precious feet have pressed. The things thine hands have handled rise To touch on memory's tender cord, And flood our eyes. Without a ken of grief and sin

Escaped from all the ills below Rest, precious lamb, forever rest!
Free from the curse, safe pillowed on Thy Saviour's breast!

And ours the pain.

Upon thy soul to leave a stain ;

Thine is the glory and the bliss,

Oh blessed day, when we may meet Our darling on the eternal shore; Where grief and partings are unknown, Forever more! At Muskegon City, Michigan, on the 20th inst., Alanson Ingham, (formerly of Mexico N. Y.,) at the residence of his son, Samue

THE WAR OF 1812

The United States authorities had a arge quantity of war material at Oswego, on Lake Ontario, consisting of heavy guns, field pieces, shot, cables, cordage, eanvas, &., which they wished to send to Sacket's Harbor, for the large ships at that place. The property being placed aboard of twenty-four flat-bottomed sail boats, the fleet left Oswego under the command of Lieutenant Woolsey, of the U.S. Navy, and reached the mouth of Sandy creek Saturday night. Unfortunately, owing to the darkness and some confusion, the fleet had sailed into the midst of the British squadron anchored off Sandy Creek and two boat loads were captured before they became fully aware of their danger. However, the other boats set

Deaf-Mute Conventions, Associations and Newspapers."

Dr. Edward M. Gallaudet's paper in the July Annals has already drawn forth editorial replies and sundry private views. The Advance has a long-winded criticism which, if the reader can wade through and come out alive, he may consider him self lucky. The Silent World restricts itself to a few remarks which though brief, are sensible. Others may follow in turn, and it is supposable that there will be a general buzz among the small fry of the "deaf-mute" correspondents.
To us Dr. Gallaudet's paper was very readable. He evidently knows a good deal about the deaf and dumb, and has doubtless written in a very kindly spirit, condemning only what he thinks in jurious to their welfare. It often happens in this life of ours that a man don't know what is good for him, and to the sensible among us, the well meant advice of an interested friend is hailed with gratitude and ofttimes followed with profit. For ourselves, we are always ready and willing to receive advice, we will carefully weigh and consider it but we will not promise to follow it. A pretty life we should lead, were we to follow all the advice given us. So, without in any way compromising ourselves, we grant our friends a careful consideration of all the advice they may give. The learned doctor says that we should not associate with another mute, for it retards his improvement. He should associate with hearing and speaking persons, then he will improve. A fine the ory, truly, but it is hardly consistent with actual fact. For if we are to accept the theory, we are to do away with our the bustle of the city, and recreates him-Institutions for the instruction of the deaf, and educate them in the common schools. We are aware that the learned doctor reasons to the conclusion that gatherings of mutes in convention, reunion, and the expression of their ideas in newspapers of their own, is great injury, but it strikes us that the former conclusion is the one that should result from the premises. But when we remember that the doctor is the head of the National Deaf-Mute College, we are pretty sure that he has no more idea of dismissing his little flock to the common schools and academies of the country than he has of starting a company to colonize the moon. No! we believe he would sooner see his theory blown to the winds than to imagine, for a moment, his class of two seniors transfered, one to Yale and the other to Columbia.

The conventions which Dr. Gallaudet condemns afford us opportunities for sundry observations. We meet, there, mutes whom we have known in school, and who have substantial positions miles away from their Alma Mater. They live in a portion of the country inhabited by no mingling with hearing and speaking perschool he was bright and intelligent and learned well. He left and went home and made the assertion, we should have doubt-This mute was gifted with a bright mind and he had a ready intelligence, and it regard being paid to the circumstances in which they are placed.

our Conventions have as yet little or nothing to show. Were they to be proven of real benefit, perhaps the learned doctor would modify his censure. We would not be understood as treating with disfavor the association of mutes with hearing persons. By all means let them mingle with their more fortunate fellow-men. But we object to making a law to keep them forever there. If they have the opportunity of associating with kindred mutes, let them associate. If they have a convention to attend, let them attend. It can do them little if any harm. In their school-day time they have so much deaf-mute company that they are almost literally past harming by any subsequent association. Journalism among the deaf and dumb is yet in its infancy. There may be a system in embryo, but as yet it is unperfected. My DEAR RIDER :- Were you ever in Aurora? I guess not, and not having been there, you of course have no idea what sort of place it is. Don't deceive yourself, and imagine it is a city. It is no such thing; it is not even a town, and nothing but a little village of about 500 inhabitants. Yet it is finely situated on the eastern bank of Cayuga lake, and hid in the sparkling waters of this lake there are thousands upon thousands of the finny tribe. The situation is most salubrious, and it is one of the most healthy places in the State. Compared with New York city, it has about the same appearance as a fly would have beside an elephant, yet it is in this very contrast that its attraction as a summer residence lies. Things which are price ess, and which no amount of money has yet been able to buy, and which in the city cannot be obtained, are here open very fine residences—country seats—and days.

Not only is Mr. Ferguson known for his daring in cases of drowning, but also as a firm friend of his fellow deaf-mutes. Popular as he is, he often has epportunities of witnessing performances on the stage, panoramas, and various other amusements, and we note a paragraph in one of the papers to the effect that he often takes a company of twenty or thirty mutes with him, and such parts of the performance as they do not understand, he explains to them.
